

Why You Should Consider Organic Lawncare

The main reason to turn to organic landscaping boils down to health concerns – the health of family members, pets, their community, and their own well-being. Synthetics pesticide and fertilizer use continue to be linked to a variety of human and environmental health problems. Being assured that your property is being cared for with materials that pose no threat is reason enough to turn to organics.

There are other reasons that recommend organic landscaping. Organic landscaping begins with the understanding that healthy plants depend on healthy soil. An organic landscaper works to build soil fertility and enhance the soil ecosystem. Healthy, well-balanced soil is the immune system of the plant. The methods and materials we use are chosen for their ability to increase the value and long-term viability of the soil. Caustic, toxic, chemical materials destroy soil life and ultimately soil fertility, leading to a host of plant problems. Conventional chemical landscaping devalues the soil. With organics you are actually getting something of value for your money!
